Mrs. Channey Bishop entertained informally yesterday afternoon with a line party at the Liberty theatre in honor of her house guest Mrs. Percy Young of Albany. Later the party enjoyed tea at the home of Mrs. George Palmer Putnam. The Youngs did not return home yesterday as they had planned, but left last evening for Portland. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Channey Bishop and will devote their time today motoring on the Columbia highway.

Miss Helen West, who has been the house guest of her aunt, Mrs. Ben Olett for a few days, returned to Portland Tuesday.

Mrs. Harry Olinger entertained informally Tuesday evening with a few tables of five hundred.

Mrs. Joseph Rothchild (Marguerite Egan) of Portland was the guest of her brother Albert Egan, for the Subscription dance Monday night.

Mrs. Charles Elgin presided over a prettily appointed one o'clock luncheon Thursday. An array of fragrant pink carnations adorned the table around which were seated ten matrons of the "Sunshine Club." The living room was aglow with jars and baskets of yellow and red Japanese quince blossoms. Luncheon was followed by an afternoon of sewing. Mrs. Elgin was assisted by Mrs. A. H. Moore.

The guests included: Mrs. W. O. Asselt, Mrs. George Hobson, Mrs. V. E. Reno, Mrs. H. W. Bross, Mrs. George Shaffer, Mrs. D. P. Brunner, Mrs. Julia Bross, Mrs. S. C. Kightlinger, Mrs. J. R. Pollock, and Mrs. A. H. Moore.

This old reliable family medicine purifies, enriches and revitalizes the blood. It is an all-year-round alternative and tonic, and is absolutely the best Spring medicine. Get your blood in good condition at once—now. Delay may be dangerous. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla, and insist on having the real thing. Nothing else can take its place.

DYESTUFFS

(From Dry Goods Economist)
"The statement is made that alizarine dyes and aniline colors are no longer obtainable. The German colors offered are in the hands of brokers principally. Careful tests of colors offered under well-known names show adulterations ranging from 50 to 90 per cent and even more, although the prices are from 10 to 50 times the price prevailing before the war for standard full strength dyes.
"As to the effect of the dye situation in the production of silks and dress goods and cotton generally, it may be said that only a few dyes have standard dyes and that the trade as a whole is accepting deliveries from dyers without exacting a close adherence to shades ordered.
"Some manufacturers of shen dyed silk say that the present producing cost is materially increased because of the slower weaving necessitated by the quality of dyes now used."

This is Silk Week at this store. In Sunday's and Monday's advertisements we went into considerable detail about our Silks, with the result that our Silk Department has been doing a phenomenal business.

From the Dry Goods Economist, "the leading and most authentic dry goods journal published, we quote: "There is undiminished interest in the largest silk movement in the history of the American industry."

The fact that this is the greatest silk season ever known; the fact that a finer, newer, better and larger assortment of silks than ours is hard to find; the fact that the exorbitant prices of dyestuffs, mentioned in the adjoining column, have only slightly affected our prices, are reasons why you should be intensely interested in this, the choicest of all fabrics.

Judge P. R. Kelly opened department No. 1 of the circuit court in this county today and heard the case of Studebaker Bros. Northwest, a corporation, against George W. Swegel, without a jury. Judge Kelly took the matter under advisement and will hand down his decision in the near future. This is an action brought to recover the sale price of a buggy after it was transferred to another party by the original purchaser, Mr. Swegel. Mr. Swegel holds that the lien on the buggy should follow the vehicle and should not be held against the original purchaser after the transfer. The attorneys for the plaintiff were Unruh and Macy and Grant Corby represented the defendant.

government to determine the status of an armed merchant vessel of belligerent nationality which enters its jurisdiction in order that its government may protect itself for responsibility of life and property permitting its ports to be used as a basis for hostile operations by belligerent warships. "2.—If the vessel carries a commission or order issued by a belligerent government and directing it under penalty to conduct aggressive operations, or if it is conclusively shown to have conducted such operations, it should be regarded and treated as a warship. "3.—If sufficient evidence is wanting, a neutral government in order to safeguard itself from liability for failure to preserve its neutrality may reasonably presume from the fact the status of an armed merchant vessel which frequents its waters. There is no settled rule of international law as to the sufficiency of evidence to establish such a presumption. As a result a neutral government must decide for itself the sufficiency of the evidence which it requires to determine the character of the vessel. For the guidance of its port officers and other officials it may therefore declare a standard of evidence, but such standard may be changed on account of the general conditions of naval warfare or modified on account of the circumstances of a particular case. These changes and modifications may be made at any time during the progress of the war, since the determination of the status of an armed merchant vessel in neutral waters may affect the liability of a neutral government."

WOMAN AVOIDS OPERATION

Astoria, N. Y.—"For two years I was feeling ill and took all kinds of tonics. I was getting worse everyday. I had chills, my head would ache, I was always tired. I could not walk straight because of the pain in my back and I had pains in my stomach. I went to a doctor and he said I must go under an operation, but I did not go. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told my husband about it. I said 'I know nothing will help me but I will try this.' I found myself improving from the very first bottle, and in two weeks time I was able to sit down and eat a hearty breakfast with my husband, which I had not done for two years. I am now in the best of health and did not have the operation."—Mrs. JOHN A. KOENIG, 502 Flushing Avenue, Astoria, N. Y.

Every one dreads the surgeon's knife and the operating table. Sometimes nothing else will do; but many times doctors say they are necessary when they are not. Letter after letter comes to the Pinkham Laboratory, telling how operations were advised and were not performed; or if performed, did no good, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used and good health followed. If you want advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

Willamette Notes

The Websterian program for this evening covers a wide range of topics. Earl Cotton will discuss the "Japanese Menace," Harvey Wilson will speak on "Indian Mythology," and relate several myths of the various tribes. Raymond Archibald will talk on "The Bridge of the Gods," Paul Miller will turn historian and tell of "Northern Mexico, the Scene of Our Army's Hunt for Villa." Harold Eakin will tell some of the happenings with which General Pershing has had on the trail of Villa. To complete the program Arlie Walker will talk on the subject, "What I Like Best in Spring." This may be one of three things as he is deeply interested in the following: Baseball, student rallies, and law, of course the feelings of a young man in the springtime would naturally turn to one of these three.

The Y. M. C. A. program for this afternoon is to be a consideration of the subject, "Realism." Miss Helen Goltra will have charge of the meeting. Miss Margaret Garrison will give a reading and the sophomore ladies' quartet will give several selections of music. This evening at 8 o'clock a Shakespeare ter-centenary program will be given in the Y. W. C. A. room in Eaton hall to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the death of the immortal Shakespeare.

Professor Robt. Stauffer has arranged the program for the event and stated that the public would be cordially welcome to attend the program to which no charge is made.

The program to be rendered is as follows:
Solo—Miss Evelyn Cathy.
Solo—Miss Grace Sherwood.
Solo—Mr. Roger Lyons.
Shakespearean traditions and curiosities—Miss Gladys Carson.
Dramatic readings—By several English literature students.
Selections of Shakespearean music and readings—Victoria.
Exhibition of Shakespearean books, portraits, paintings, etc.

Joseph Gerhart, who has been laid up with sickness at the Willamette Sanatorium, is again back in school, not doing active school work, but visiting about accustoming himself to the routine of work which he says he had almost forgotten in his five or six weeks absence. Gerhart will graduate with his class in June and remain during the summer to make up his work.

The junior play, Sherwood, will be given at the asylum Thursday evening to the inmates of the institution. Professor MacMurray, who is directing the play, says that it will be given with as much enthusiasm as will be shown on the evening of May 5, in the effort to entertain the audience. This will be excellent practice for the cast as many signs of stage fright visible will thus be eliminated before the play is given for its final presentation to the public.

Earl Flegel, who plays the part of Robin Hood, has the heaviest role in the cast and his ability as an interpreter of the bold daring outlaw Robin Hood is very reliable and will make a hit with the audience when the play is presented.

Miss White was declared champion woman tennis racket wielder at Willamette recently by defeating Miss Tobie two sets in succession by scores of 6-0 and 6-1. Both games were hotly contested and showed brilliancy on the part of both players. Miss Tobie won from Miss Cunningham in the semi-finals while Miss White won from Miss Teeters in the semi-finals. This placed Miss Tobie and Miss White as contenders for honors in the finals, and Miss White was the winner. She will represent Willamette in the ladies' singles and mixed doubles in the tournament to be played between Willamette and Pacific college during the May Day festivities.
